Amy: Why?

May: In Iran, if(假如) girls are over nine years old, they must wear headscarves in public places.

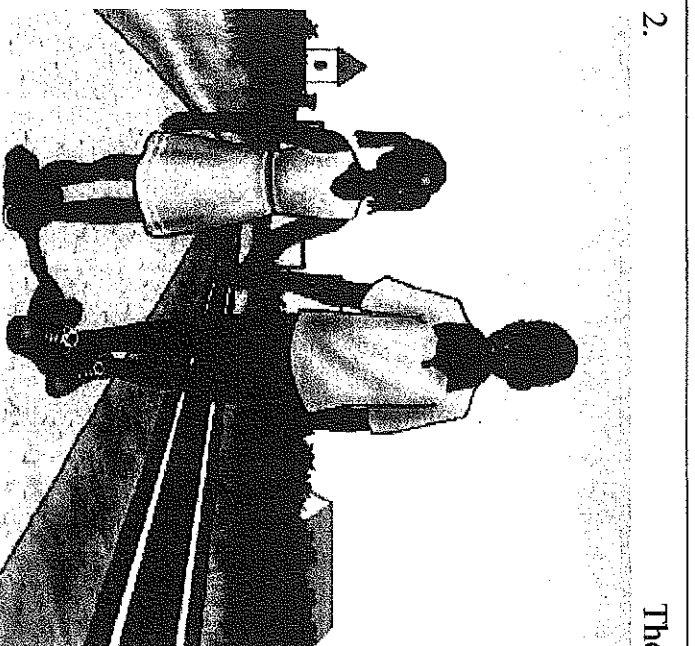

Amy: The tourists(觀光客) have to do that, too?

May: Yes.

Amy: So you wore the headscarf all the time when you went traveling in Iran.

May: You're right except one place.
 Amy: Where?
 May: At the carpet(地毯) shop.
 Amy: Because they want to sell(賣) you carpets.
 May: How brilliant you are!
 Amy: How were the people there?
 May: They were very nice. When we were walking on the street, there were always people saying hello to us.
 And we didn't know them at all.
 Amy: Cool! I want to visit it one day.
 May: Yes, you should. It's a beautiful and friendly country.

The Car Accident

One day, my sister and I were walking near the road. A big truck was driving down the road. A small green car with a family of four was going really fast up the road. The truck driver was talking on his phone and he wasn't looking at the road. The truck hit the small car with a very big sound! Very soon, the police and people working at the hospital came to help. People from the hospital brought the truck driver and the family to the hospital. Oh no! One of the family did not use the seat belt(安全带) when riding in the car, so he was hurt really bad! Later, two tow trucks came, too. The first tow truck pulled the truck away. The second tow truck pulled the small green car away. My sister and I saw everything. We learned some very important lessons from this accident.
