In American movies, if someone fell into the river in South America, he or she would be eaten up by piranha fish. In a few seconds, the person's blood would be seen on the surface of the river. That makes piranha fish one of the most scary fishes in the world.

Piranhas are famous for their scary sharp teeth. Most of the people believe that the fish love eating men. It is true that piranhas attack animals which are much larger than themselves, but this usually happens when larger animals are bleeding. To be honest, piranhas love eating fruit more than eating meat. So, piranhas should not be called man-eaters.

In fact, a study showed that a river with piranhas in it is healthy. Animal bodies in the river can be eaten up by piranhas. This makes the river clean and safe, or the river with bodies will get sick soon.
