Dear Alex,

How have you been? I went to Meinong with my parents last Sunday. This was my second time to be there. At a shop there, I saw many beautiful paper umbrellas. I also tried to paint on a little paper umbrella. I painted some flowers.

I also bought a pair of paper umbrellas for my cousin as his wedding gift. However, the word for umbrellas sounds like "separate" in Taiwanese. Just to play it safe, I will ask him to pay me one dollar; that means he buys them from me. That's interesting, isn't it?

I haven't seen you for two months. I miss you. Are you coming back next weekend? I can show you the little umbrella when you are back.

Stella

- () 31. Which is NOT true?

Halloween means "holy evening." It's a day to have fun and be creative. On Halloween, people decorate their homes with witches, ghosts, and skeletons. Outside their houses, they put scary pumpkins. After school, children will go door to door in their masks and costumes. Some will become witches or ghosts, and others will become TV characters or wear animal costumes. They ring doorbells and say "Trick or treat!" The treat is candy, fruit, or chocolate. Some adults will go to Halloween parties, too. But they don't go trick-or-treating.

There are many superstitions around the world. For example, Chinese people don't like the number four because it sounds like "death" in Chinese. Chinese people usually have fish at home because it sounds like "more" in Chinese. Isn't it fun? In America, many buildings don't have the 13th floor. In France, people don't like the number thirteen for their home addresses. In these countries, people are afraid that Friday falls on the 13th of a month because they think it's an unlucky day. People are always careful on this day or they may have bad luck. But do you know where this superstition comes from?

One story is that there were thirteen people at Jesus' Last Super. The thirteenth person, Judas betrayed Jesus. Also, the thirteenth tarot card is Death. That's why the number thirteen is not popular with Americans. So, be careful next time Friday the 13th comes! Maybe you can cross your fingers to stop bad things from happening.

There is a kind of famous fruit in southern Taiwan. Do you know what it is? The answer is "wax apple," which is as large as a child's fist and a little like the shape of people's noses. In Taiwan, people can buy delicious wax apples from October to February.

Pingtung is famous for this kind of fruit. In fact, wax apples were from Malaysia. The farmers in Taiwan improved them and made them sweeter. Wax apples in Taiwan are also called "black pearls" because of not only the color but also the shape. Wax apples are good for people to eat. With over 90% of water in the fruit, you don't have to worry about getting heavy. Also, you can get vitamin from the fruit. Next time, remember to enjoy the great fruit when you visit Pingtung.
