Ella: Oh, no!

Kelly: What's wrong? Again?

Ella: Yes, there's something wrong with the car again.

Kelly: What?! We're on the freeway! No taxis here. We must be late for it! What can we do now?

Ella: I don't know.

Kelly: Last month, we were late for Grandpa's birthday party. I was sorry then. Uncle Brian cooked a delicious dinner for her. Three weeks ago, we were late for a magic show, and then we were late for the touching movie last week. Let's call Aunt Melissa first. Maybe we can't go to her birthday party on time today.

Ella: Ok.

Kelly: Ella, it's long in the tooth. Don't you get a new car? It's over fifteen years old. It is dangerous to drive this car, right?

Ella: I know, I know. Next month. Next month, we can have a new car.

Kelly: Next month! Today's only the second day of this month!

Ella: OK. Hey, look! Here comes a police car. Let's ask them for help.

2. On Teachers' Day, we thank our teachers for their hard work. We also celebrate this day to remember Confucius, the great Chinese teacher from 2,500 years ago. Well, that's what we know about Teachers' Day. But, the first Teachers' Day was not on Confucius's birthday, and it was not about thanking our teachers.

In 1930, Mr. Tai Shuang-qiu and other teachers celebrated the first Teachers' Day in Nanjing. But there was nothing to celebrate. Teachers couldn't make much money and only got little respect. These teachers shouted out their problems. They had Teachers' Day on June 6 because the date was easy to remember and near the end of the school year. Teachers from other cities liked and went with this action by Mr. Tai. In 1939, the government made Teachers' Day a holiday. However, it was on August 27, the same date as Confucius's birthday. Not everyone hailed this choice: Teachers' Day was never about Confucius, and Confucius couldn't speak for all the teachers.

One funny thing was that the government was wrong about the date of Confucius's birthday. In 1952, people found out he was in fact born on September 28. That was when we started to celebrate Teachers' Day on Confucius's real birthday.
